Sunday River Skiway Corporation announced last Friday, Nov. 10, that a tentative agreement has been reached to sell a controlling interest in the ski facility to the Sherburne Corporation, owner and operator of the Killington Ski Resort in central Vermont.

The agreement entails the sale of 13,000 shares of Sunday River common stock to Sherburne Corporation. The agreement is subject to certain terms and conditions established between the two corporations. The authorized capital stock of Sunday River consists of 25,000 shares of common stock, all of which will be issued and outstanding at the conclusion of the purchase.

No date for the closing has been announced at this time. However, a managing contract has been signed and Sherburne Corporation began managing operations at Sunday River as of Nov. 1, 1972.

Sunday River Skiway Corporation owns and operates the Sunday River Ski Area located just off U. S. 2, approximately six miles north of Bethel.

The area features a 5,100 foot double chairlift, three T-bar lifts, and 14 miles of trails and slopes up to 3 1/2 miles in length. Other facilities include a base lodge with cafeteria, snowmaking and trail grooming equipment, plus land at the base area.

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

Interest on 1972 taxes will be applied Dec. 1. The penalty will be retroactive to Oct. 1.

Liens on 1970 taxes will expire Feb. 27, 1973. This will mean if the estate taxes are not paid prior to that date, the property becomes town owned. The selectmen have the authority to dispose of the tax required property any way they see fit.

It will soon be time to start budget meetings. Anyone with a project they would like implemented next year should present it to the town office soon in order that it may be reviewed by the selectmen prior to the committee meetings.

The town office will be closed Thanksgiving Day. It will be open Friday, Nov. 24.

We have not received any further information as to the amount of money we will receive through the Federal Revenue Sharing bill. We have been informed we will receive our share for the first half of 1972 in January of 1973.

"You know who" introduces the 2-rates-in-1 Savings idea!

It's actually two accounts in one so that we can pay you two different interest rates. The idea is so simple and so sensible, you wonder why someone, somewhere, didn't think of it before?

There are really only two kinds of savings.

The first kind is short-term savings. This is money you save temporarily for real estate taxes, insurance premiums, Christmas, the down payment on a new car or anything else you save up for during the year so that you'll have all, or at least part, of the money you'll need when you need it.

You ought to be able to put this money in the bank and have it earn interest for you while it's there without wondering when you should put it in and when you're allowed to take it out. Now you can.

This is exactly what the first side of the "2-rates-in-1" Savings book is for. And you are paid interest on every dollar you have in the bank for every day you have it in there—even if it's only for one day.

On this side of the account your money earns 4 1/2% simple annual interest. That's all the law permits us to pay you for this in-one-day maybe out the next kind of a deposit. But remember, you never lose even a penny's interest no matter when you make a deposit or withdrawal.

The second kind of savings.

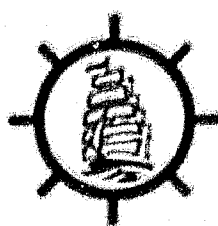

Now, let's talk about relatively long-term savings. This is money for such things as college for the kids, a new home someday, your retirement or any other money which you can set aside for two years, in amounts of $500 and up. These funds should go into the second, higher interest side of your book.

On this side, because of the amount of dollars and the length of time your money will be in the bank, the law permits us to pay you 5 3/4% simple annual interest. And, because Casco figures your interest on a continuous basis, your actual yield at year end is a big 6%.

What about monthly savings?

Now, you actually use both sides of the account. Let's say you are determined to save a certain amount of money every month. First, you put this money in the short-term side of the book. When you decide that you have $500 more than you need in these short-term funds, you promptly move $500 to the second side so that you'll start earning that big 6% yield as soon as possible.

Keep one thing in mind, however. You probably will always want to leave some emergency funds in the short-term side. This isn't money earmarked to pay a future bill, but when the unexpected happens, you'll be able to get at this money on a moment's notice. And you won't lose any interest when you do.

We're always thinking...

Casco Bank & Trust
A Casco-Northern Bank

MEMBER FDIC

We can make things even easier and better for you if you say the word.

The ideal way to use the "2-rates-in-1" Savings idea is to put a fixed amount of money in the account every month. This amount should be based on the yearly bills you know you are going to have to pay and your long-term savings goals. If you wish, we'll even sit down with you and help you decide on the monthly amount you need.

Then, if you say the word, but only if you say the word, we will automatically take this fixed amount of money out of your checking account on the same day every month, without fail. We will put it in the first side of your "2-rates-in-1" Savings book so that you will promptly start earning interest on that money. The way you know that when the time comes, you'll have the money you need to pay any "bills" you have budgeted and saved for ahead of time.

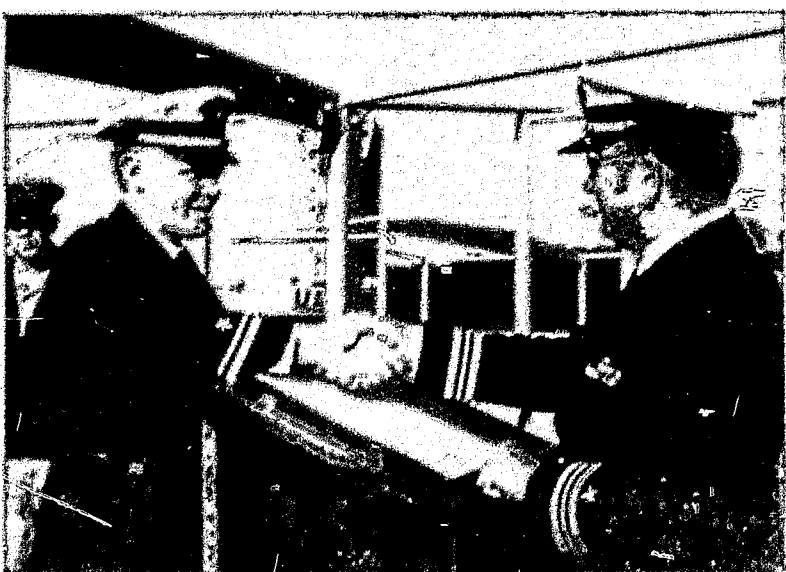

Let's be honest with each other. This automatic option provides the discipline which almost all of us need if we are going to manage our money well.

It means you can't put off making your deposit. You can't forget. And, you can't fail to get to the bank because you're too busy. We do the worrying for you and you enjoy the "peace of mind."

The best plan either way.

Regardless of whether you decide to run things yourself, or let us give you a hand, the "2-rates-in-1" Savings idea has to be the best savings plan in the country. And that's not because we thought of it. It's because it's so simple and so sensible for you.

Visit the Casco branch that's nearest to you. If you have any questions, you'll get the answers.

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

As I went by my garage toward the road a few days ago I heard chatters and scoldings from inside. Stepping to the door I was greeted by my now fall visitor, Red, the squirrel. Shakespeare described him with this one scene, "What a spendthrift is he of his tongue." He clattered, barked and sputtered. For a moment I wondered why. Then at a glance I saw the butternuts in a box. He had claimed them. They had grown on our tree in rich, moist soil high on the hill. These nuts are about three inches long, cylindrical, covered with sticky hairs, and are produced in drooping clusters. The trees grow from 30 to 40 feet high and may have a diameter of one to two feet. The limbs are stout and spreading, extending horizontally from the trunk to form a low, broad, rounded head. These nuts were gathered in mid October. Some had been used and in the box were the left overs. I talked back to Red then went on my way.

Down by the ponds the reflections of the leafless trees were in the water. The season's change is definitely here. The trees are ready for winter. It's nice to have autumn for it's a memorable season, and wonderful.

The roadside asters are gone but their seeds wait at the roots for the coming of another year.

I stopped to listen and sensed the surrounding silence. Then two blue jays broke the stillness. These jays on the stumps at home each morning, feathers fluffed, pompous and scowling. They flock together and then quarrel, always criticising their rasping voices.

Little waves seemed to run toward me at the shore while the mountains across from me looked serene and cold. In the center of the pond the water was dark, blue-black. I stepped near the bank and looked under the hemlocks near the edge. The wide, lower branches looked like soft, lacy skirts and I noticed moss so green beneath.

Thoughts of the trail of my boat there not too long ago, came to me; how silver and shining the ripples were.

Going on I heard the water running down the hill at my left in the brooks; a result of yesterday's rain.

The earth was covered with fallen leaves but here and there the green came through. I especially noticed trailing on the ground a green vine with spikes standing straight up like little candles. I wondered what this was known as prince's pine.

After some time I turned back toward home. A flock of robins in migration flew up from the field and came their notes, and spring seemed here again. Some migrants are left and others have arrived. This year at this time I think, this is the month to climb out on roof top after dark and just listen. What a picture it would be.

JACKSON-SILVER POST

HELZ COMMEMORATION OF ARMISTICE DAY, NOV. 11

A celebration commemorating Armistice Day was sponsored by the Jackson-Silver Post No. 68, American Legion, on Saturday, Nov. 11.
Fifty-four years ago, Nov. 11, 1918, at 11 a. m. the armistice was signed with Germany. The American Legion would like to see Armistice Day returned nationwide.

The Jackson-Silver Post would like to thank all who participated in the events of the day.

Special thanks to the people who put so much time into the making of the floats. The winners were as follows: Betsy Ross, first place;
Be Prepared, second place; Iwo Jima, third place. Also thanks are due to the students of the S. A. D.
44 Band, who led the parade and added their colors to the huge success of the day. Also thanks to the Bethel Clowns.

Awarded the grand prizes were:
T. V., Alice McAllister of Bethel; and the tape player, Earl Barker of Bryant Pond.

Serving as judges were Henry V.
Smith, County Commander; Merle Ring, Bryant Pond, and Maurice Bouchard of Bethel. Appreciation is also due the Dance Band, who played in the evening.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES AT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
THURSDAY, NOV. 22

Thanksgiving Day services open to the public will be held Thursday,
Nov. 23, at all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The service at First Church of Christ Scientist, Corner of Main and Tenth Streets, Berlin, N. H., will start at 11 a. m.

Keynote the Lesson-Sermon on "Thanksgiving" is this passage from the Bible: "Rejoice evermore: Pray without ceasing. In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

The nature of true gratitude is emphasized in commentary to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, including this citation:
"Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks.
action expresses more gratitude than speech."

Hymns of gratitude, including
"We lift our hearts in praise," hymn
No. 371 in Christian Science Hymnnal; "Praise my soul, the King of heaven," No. 260; and "We thank Thee and we bless Thee, O Father of us all" will be sung by the congregation.

There is no clergy in the Church of Christ, Scientist. The service will be conducted by the First and Second Readers.

The organist will accompany the singing and give, as a solo, Edward MacDonnell's "Sea Music: 1623" which includes the hymn sung by the Pilgrims in Thanksgiving to God.

Individual expressions of gratitude by members of the congregation will be a feature of the service. No collection of any kind will be taken, and all are invited to attend.

inventories, showing nature of house possessions of Bethel residents in the period of 1813-1890 when the Dr.
Moses Mason house was occupied by the Masons. It was stressed that furnishing the house to have "a lived in look" as if the occupants had just stepped out, was a desirable way to arrange the rooms.

Aids available through the State Museum were mentioned, as well as from the State Library. The chairman of the trustees, Elizabeth Carter, spoke of the offer of the Assistant Director of the Shelburne Museum, Shelburne, Vt., to meet with her, or any members of the ful-fillings committee, to consult, and that the library resources of that museum can be used at any time through the year, even though the museum is closed to the public during the winter.

In discussing the grounds around the house, James Alger urged that there be planting of some of the old apple trees common to Maine during the early days. At present, so far as is known, there is no "outdoor museum" of early fruit trees and plants in Maine.

The welcome announcement was made that on Oct. 17 the Dr. Moses Mason House was added to the roster of the National Register on Historic Places.

Communications from both the Maine Historic Preservation Commission, and Senator Margaret Chase Smith, brought the announcement. Senator Smith had been in contact with the Department of the Interior which makes the final designations on important landmarks. In future guide books and on maps of historic places,
Bethel will now have its own Dr.
Mason house.

TRAILER ASSOCIATION MEETS AT WEST PARIS

Maine Chapter #44, Serro-Scotty Owners Trailer Association held their annual meeting at the Masonic Hall, West Paris, Nov. 5, with 50 members and guests in attendance. Dinner was served by Granite Chapter, O. E. S., followed by the business meeting of the trailer owners.

After annual reports had been made, election of officers for 1973 was held with the following results:
Marshall Wagner, Cumberland, president; John Dolan, North Anson, vice president; Grace Chesley, East Sumner, secretary; Patricia
Allen, corresponding secretary.
Freeprest; Russell Norris, Portland, treasurer. Directors elected as follows: Ruth Kirtledge, Bethel; Richard and Sharpe, Brunswick; David Allen, Freeport, was re-elected for 1973 as Wagonmaster.

At the conclusion of the annual meeting an hour of sociability followed. President Marshall Wagner presented Mrs. Godwin of Bethel, proprietor of Twin Oaks Campground, a plaque honoring her as having the finest facilities of any recreation area used by Chapter 44 for the 1973 season.

On behalf of the Club, Reverend Dr. Robert Baudo, of the 1972 officers by the membership as an expression of the appreciation of their efforts during this initial year of the association.

President Wagner presented each of the members gifts of a fun nature, reminding them of some phase of their camping experiences with the club during the past year.

The next meeting will be held at Foster Memorial Hall, Strong, with pot luck dinner at 12 noon.
Followed by a gift exchange. Date of this meeting will be announced later.

HUNTERS URGED TO MIND OUTDOOR MANNERS

The Maine Fish and Game Department is urging the state's sportsmen to toe the mark when it comes to maintaining good relations with landowners.

More land is being posted every year, which means less opportunity for hunters to enjoy their sport in a manner which just a few years ago was more or less taken for granted.

The reasons for increasing posting of land are many and often complex, and it is often beyond the ability of sportsmen or the Fish and Game Department to prevent.
But there are many instances where the cause of the posting is simple, known, and easily prevented.

Common sense should tell sportsmen that even the most generous landowner is going to tolerate limited, unskillful handling of firearms, and abusive manners for only so long.
Many farmers and other landowners are often driven to posting to protect their own interests.

Game wardens can't be everywhere to correct these situations so in the end it is up to the hunter to make sure that the outdoor manners of his companions are beyond reproach. Don't be afraid to correct your buddy if he becomes lax. If he gets you in trouble with a landowner, your best friend is defect you and all other sportsmen a grave disservice.

Locke Mills Brownie Troop 712 —
We held our regular meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 8, at our leader's home. Following the opening exercises, we went into a discussion about the parade on Saturday and the float we were having in the Parade. The girls had been working on the paper carnations all the week before and brought most of them to the meeting Wednesday. We decided we needed a few more so they made more and the leader picked them up at school Thursday and Friday. All the girls met or were picked up by the leader Saturday morning for the Parade. I'm afraid we didn't take any of the prizes, however, I honestly believe and I say this without prejudice, that we had the prettiest, that there was more work put into it and also that it was as patriotic as any float in the parade. I'm very proud of all my little Brownies. I think they did a great job. —Leader Reporting

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Mrs. Olive Davis, Corres.

The Willing Workers held their annual supper Wednesday night, with a good attendance. The Thanks giving basket was awarded to one of our patrons from the hunters group who attended the supper. Thanks to all who patronized us. The Willing Workers will be having a meeting Thursday, Nov. 16, at the Union Church. We hope all members will attend. The meeting is called for 7:30 p. m. Some important matters will be taken care of then. The Willing Workers will be putting on the Senior Citizens' dinner.

Deer are becoming too plentiful. Sheriff Walbur saw one near his new home in the middle of Hendrickson Hill. They, the deer, are cheap, so I guess they are hanging around hoping to get another one of Al Hendrickson's. There was one reported seen on Forest Hill recently. No wonder there are no deer in the neighborhood. The deer belong to the sheep family, which figures.

Judy Campbell spent Saturday night with her cousin, Mary Ellen Knight, at North Woodstock.

Valerie Knight spent Saturday night with her cousin, Karen Campbell.

The hunting season is on. There are many hunters in the camps in the neighborhood.

I want to correct an error in the last issue. Pamela Horton was the owner from Telstar who called on Oscar Davis. Janet in Pamela's sister. She was with her daughter but Pam was selling articles for her class.

TELSTAR N. H. S. ACTIVITIES

On Friday, Oct. 27, Gayle Packard, state treasurer of the National Honor Society, and Mrs. Madeleine Gibbs, N. H. S. advisor, attended the first state officers' meeting held at Lawrence High School in Fairfield, Maine. Preliminary planning was done for the state convention to be held in March.

Also making the trip with the Telstar representatives was Kathryn Cole of Mexico, elected District 3 regional chairman at a recent meeting held at Telstar. At that same meeting Terry Berryment of Telstar was elected regional secretary of District 3 of the National Honor Society.

RECENTLY COMPLETED, except of minor details, section of U. S. Route 2 sweeps around a bend in the Androscoggin River just north of Bethel. The new highway fills a gap between the already improved sections of the highway in this scenic area of the state. New section extends from one-half mile north of the Androscoggin River Bridge northerly to 0.3 mile north of the junction of Sunday River Road. The project was awarded by the Maine Department of Transportation in January 1972 to H. E. Sargent, Inc. of Stillwater, whose low bid was $634,263. Curves were straightened and humps and dips leveled along the section to improve visibility. About midway a truck lane was constructed to serve westbound traffic. The intersection at Sunday River Road was channelized. Final cleanup on the job, said MDOT resident engineer David Fox is being carried out early this month.

Gordon McPhail — District Manager

It is a well known fact that there is no one institution in this community that has done more toward the development and progress of this section than has this reputable firm. They operate one of the finest equipped utilities in the U. S.

Through their service, many of the surrounding communities and rural districts have been supplied with power and light and have thus been enabled to secure industries which have materially aided their progress.

The Central Maine Power Co. is owned and controlled by many of the members who use its services. Through democratic processes the owners (41,000 people own shares) meet each year to select their own officers for the Board of Directors. This electric firm pays all taxes as any other business institution. Many institutions use its stocks for retirement purposes.

The service furnished by this aggressive firm is rendered at a low and reasonable rate.

In this 1972 Review we, the writers, are glad to call the attention to their very complete and comprehensive service. Phone 361-4501 for information.

DAY'S JEWELRY STORE

Dale Harris — Mgr.

In reviewing the various leaders of the area it would indeed be most incomplete to neglect comment on the career and activities of Day's Jewelry Store located at 86 Congress St. in Rumford, phone 361-4308. When you purchase jewelry it is necessary to seek a reliable concern, because once you are pleased with an article and ready to buy it, you do so on the representations of the man who sells it. That makes it vital indeed to know in advance that such representations are dependable.

Let us consider diamonds. There are many different cuts and grades, and Day's Jewelry Store carries all of them. The personnel here will be glad to explain the merits of each. They are experts in every phase and we are glad to recognize their ability and fair manner of dealing as well as to commend them on the splendid spirit always evidenced in being public spirited on every occasion that has ever presented itself.

The editors of this 1972 Town and Country Review compliment them for their honest business dealing and invite our readers to see them first.

WARREN S. ABBOTT, INC.

George Byam, Elwin Cole — Owners

To be efficient, a piece of farm machinery must be built to stand the tough use necessarily involved in the working of farm lands, and logging and excavating industries.

The Warren S. Abbott, Inc. features the famous John Deere line of farm machinery which has stood the test of years of rugged usage and has proven satisfactory in every phase to the loggers and excavators in this area. They also feature a complete parts and repair department so that when your equipment needs repair, they can give you the best service in the shortest time at the least possible expense to you.

As more and more people find each year that snowmobiling is a great sport and pastime, they have turned to the factory authorized dealer for their purchases and service of snowmobiles. Farmers and Ranchers, as well as many ski resorts and government agencies have found these dependable snowmobiles, now available in five models, can be very useful in snowbound areas.

Be sure to contact them first when in the market for any type of heavy equipment and garden necessities. Just call for information or stop in the next time you are in the area and ask for either George Byam and Elwin Cole to show you the advantage of using John Deere equipment to put your logging or excavating business on a really paying basis.

In this 1972 Review we the writers suggest you depend on Warren S. Abbott, Inc., on U. S. Route 2, in Rumford, phone 361-4022, for all your snowmobile, heavy equipment and lawn and garden purchases.

TELSTAR R. H. S. NEWS

STUDENT COUNCIL NOTES

Senior High:

The major event at school this week is the drama club's production of three-act plays. The plays are all student-directed with "The Lottery," "The Lottery," and "The Lottery" will be performed on Friday and Saturday nights, at 7:30 p.m.

Last week and the Audio-Visual club presented a festival of cartoon movies. It's good to see something offered for the younger set. Monday Nov. 20, Telstar's High School Quiz team will travel to Portland to take our first show against Monmouth. The team is the same as last year's, with Mike Davis, Russ Swain and Randy Little.

This Thursday the Math League is competing in the second meet of the year at Telstar.

Winter sports practices have started with good turnout for most of the teams. The ski team will be off to an early start this year with the new snow.

The music groups are coming on to the home stretch in preparations for the Christmas Concert.

The student council has done some housecleaning, and we are welcoming new members Cathy Fiske and Nancy Verrill.

We are again taking up the quest for a smoking area, although we do not have the administrative support that we had for the project last year. We feel that we can present a reasonable case for the area to the school board. The directors refused the request last year, but we feel that the need is still great enough for us to keep trying.

— Mike Davis

GOULD THIS WEEK

Jane Baker, a Bethel Junior, is hunched over a microphone.

"Oh Mr. Vido," she intones in a heavy, Lili Tomlin voice, "I'm afraid we're going to have to send over a big burly serviceman to rip out your phone."

Suddenly her voice fades. "Where's the mike," she says looking up.

"Where's the MIKE," shouts Frank Fiske.

"It just conked out," says a student sheepishly from the balcony of Bingham Auditorium.

With four days to go, a cast and staff of 40 students—nearly a fifth of the Gould Academy student body—is rushing the school's first Fall Variety show in years to completion. For the school, it is the event of the week.

The show is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Sunday evening. Scheduled to begin, that is, pending the return of a large contingent of Gould students visiting Montreal on a trip sponsored by the Academy's Alliance Francaise.

After weeks of intensive rehearsal, the show's producers hope to parade a fast-moving series of skits, songs, and instrumentals before students and Academy friends. Featured acts include piano solos by Gunther Volk, a visiting German exchange student, and Frank Fiske, the school's new music teacher.

Also scheduled is a maiden performance of the revived Gould Glee Club and a faculty quartet, including, among others Headmaster Richard Dolyen and his wife Malzy.

If the crucial Alliance students arrive, says faculty producer Fiske, the curtain will rise at 8 p.m. Sunday. Should the Alliance encounter delays in its return, the show will be rescheduled.

Interested members of the Bethel community are invited to attend.

Original Thanksgiving combined holiday with religious festival

by Margie G. Sallies

The aroma of roasting turkey and spicy pumpkin pie greet millions of waking Americans on Thursday, November 23, as the country celebrates its national feast of Thanksgiving and harvest.

School children across the country have been taught the story of how the American nation began.

When the first Pilgrims landed in Plymouth in 1620, they faced a very winter with very little down at long tables and ate for three days!

Between courses the Pilgrim fathers and the Indians played games and ran races. The Pilgrim mothers and boys and girls cooked and cooked—Indian pudding, clam chowder, roasted corn, corn bread and nut stuffing for the big bird. Delicious. The Indians went home happy. And the Pilgrims stayed snug all winter in their 7 little houses. They had enough food in their 3 big storehouses to last till spring.

doing while the 90 braves feasted and played games with the Pilgrims for three days. Perhaps they were delighted with the opportunity to have the Pilgrim ladies doing all the cooking and clean up after a three day eating event!

The traditional menu of turkey is served by most families in honor of the Pilgrims who ate wild turkey at their first feast of Thanksgiving in the new country. The modern bird will probably be much more tasty and not as gamey in flavor as the original wild turkey.

According to the author of the current Broadway hit, 1776, one of the founding fathers of the country wanted to make the turkey the national symbol rather than the eagle. He reasoned that the wild turkey was native to most of the country, was accessible to all, and had provided food for colonists from the first settlements. But other statesmen

Thanksgiving—American Style

vetted the turkey since they claimed that it lacked the dignity and strength which the national symbol should project

There are the Snows of yesteryear? or Mother Eve and Adam's Apple

by Everett K. Martin

What sort of apple was it that Eve handed Adam, resultant consequences known to all who have read the Old Testament part of their sacred text?

Ben's Blush might seem a candidate considering it was supposed to be of its kind. Or could it be a Mother Apple? Or a Sweet?

Well, it must have been a if you'll pardon the pun, when you consider what it did.

from Paris; Cole's Quince, Cornish; Winthrop Greening, Winthrop; Fairbanks' apple, Winthrop; Briggs Auburn, Auburn; Moses Wood apple, Winthrop; Winthrop Pearmain; Stevens' Giffiflower, Sweden, and Bailey's Golden Sweet, Sydney. These are all natives of Maine, and two indeed originated in this county.

Some of these names are not so commonly known now. The average shopper in the supermarket encounters principally the Macintosh, Cortland, the Delicious, both Red and Yellow, Gravenstein and perhaps the Baldwin, Wealthy and Northern Spy.

But to take a line from Francois Villon, the great French poet, "Where are the snows of yesteryear?"

In the early years of this century the writer and his boyhood pals used to cherish a fine, red apple, with white, delicious meat of outstanding flavor which, at least among us, was known as the snow apple. Whether it was a widespread favorite then, or whether a few of the farmers in the area used to bring them in, your deponent knoweth not. They just don't seem to be around anymore, at least, we found no mention of them in some research in old agricultural reports and some more modern encyclopedias. And we haven't had any for years. Perhaps the name was local, colloquial, or one made up to suit a boyish fancy.

Be that as it may, poring through the pages of some old

Maine reports of fair associations, agricultural societies and maybe the Agricultural Commission of that day, say 1850 to 1852 or thereabouts, it will be found that indeed apple varieties were many, and that also, many of these are no longer heard of, at least among the casual citizenry.

One encyclopedia told us that there were 7,500 varieties of apples in the world, and that 2,500 could be found in the United States. Another pegged 25 existing species of apple descending from the two original forms, Pyrus malus and Pyrus baccata.

The figures aren't, perhaps, too important. The fact is that apples are wonderful tasty fruit and that one a day taken internally by everybody would put a heck of a dent in the income of the medical profession. Or so goes the old saw.

Initially, what started the writer off on his study of apples and what kinds there were around, was a paragraph in an old volume called Transactions of the Agricultural Societies of the State of Maine for 1850, 1851 and 1852, Part I, arranged from official returns by E. Holmes, Secretary of the Board of Agriculture, and printed in Augusta by William H. Simpson, Printer, in 1853.

The startling statement was on page 318. It may be erroneous, and we've tried to find out the facts, but we still haven't come up with too much information on the point.

A. D. #44 BOARD MEETS T. LOCKE MILLS SCHOOL

The S. A. D. #44 board of directors met at the Locke Mills Elementary school on Monday evening, Nov. 20. Dave Denison, director of Co-Op Education at Telstar, gave an excellent report on the program implemented this year. Thirty-eight students are participating, and there are 70 who have expressed a desire to participate. There are many employers who would like to take more students.

Basel E. Kinney, superintendent, reported that he had contacted a trucking company with regard to vehicles turning in the Ethel Beebe School yard. The firm has promised that any of their vehicles will cease the practice. The turning of large trucks in the yard has posed a potentially hazardous condition for the students at the school.

Mr. Kinney discussed guidelines for the implementation of a self-evaluation of the district's elementary system with the community, staff members and the State education agency being involved. He stated that such a plan would be invaluable in developing a five year plan regarding the future of S. A. D. #44 elementary schools. Mr. Kinney said that at a later date he would request formal board action regarding self-evaluation of the elementary schools to begin in January 1973, to be completed no later than June 1973.

The board approved Sherwood Jordan as a post graduate student at Telstar.

Also approved by the board was a driver education program outside of school hours, during the current school year. It was learned on Tuesday, that it is a fact that the State Board of Education has determined that it will not pay subsidy on any driver education program during the regular school year where a tuition charge is made to a student. It would appear that the program approved is unworkable to implement.

The board approved a field trip for all grade six students of the district to attend the Portland Harbor Company's presentation of "Nautical Science" in Portland on Dec. 16. This trip is under the supervision of Mrs. Edith Kupper, elementary music supervisor, assisted by the Music Teachers.

The directors approved a revised tuition rate of $142.72 for the 1973 school year, and an elementary rate of $69.14. The rate of tuition for special education is approved at the level of the teacher's salary divided by the average number of class members.

1. Mrs. M. J. Woodcock, chairman of the Buildings and grounds committee was authorized to compile data relevant to the installation of a new set of adequate lighting of cut and entrance driveways at Wilburton Route 29. He is to report his findings to the board at the next meeting.
2. Mr. J. J. Jackson and Mosley reviewed Mrs. Lavinia Allen's Antiques.
3. Mr. Margaret J. Tibbitts, Bethel.
4. The next regular meeting of the board is scheduled for Monday evening Dec. 4.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY— I remember was guest of honor at my ninth birthday party. It was at my parents' home. Mr. and Mrs. George Barndollar of Bethel. I was guest of honor at a new birthday party Wednesday, Nov. 15, and received and enjoyed many gifts from both parties.

MRS. RING WAS 94 NOV. 4

Talking about birthdays, I think Mrs. Ring, who is at Ledgeview West Paris, should be mentioned. She was 94 Nov. 4, and is now 95. She is a very smart and she says has an excellent appetite. She gets around her room with her walker.

Her daughter from 1914 to 1915 came for a week, just before that her daughter had come and covered her bed with a very pretty material.

Then the company started to come. On Nov. 3 her son, Mr. Albert Ring, from Montpelier came with gifts and it was like Santa Claus had got to her. There were 22 callers in her room Nov. 4 it was a very busy day. Nov. 5, there were callers and more gifts. Nov. 9, people in the kitchen made a cake and delivered it to her. Gram came in her room on the table.

In the forenoon, Nov. 9, in a daughter-in-law with a bean birthday cake she had made decorated to pretty. This she remembered all with a good cross piece. Talk about one day she had 14, one day 13, I want to mention the 10 people in the kitchen made a Franklin Grange. Today is a day to call and more a little. I don't know just how many yet.

Have just counted up the 6 and there are 55. So we are thinking this is a real birthday and her good health until 1973, and long after — We by Alma Whitman, Ledgeview West Paris, Maine.

Talkin' Country

Stephen Wilson . . . Canadian Cannonball

by Sandra Dunham
(Photos by "Scooter" Newton)
Sandy's note: Perhaps you are wondering why I chose this particular artist to interview while in Canada and decided to bring the story home to you. I think because this boy is typical of ANY boy; perhaps the one living next to you, who picks his guitar at odd moments of the night. I think also to prove that the love for good country music and the love that a boy can have for his guitar is universal. I came away loving this artist; I hope you enjoy our conversation and will think, while you are reading it, of the many fifteen year old boys YOU know who play publicly.

"... I want to learn to play better honky tonk piano. . . really good honky-tonk. . ."

"... She (sister, Brenda) never lets me down. I'm totally ease . . ."

I can't say I am going to be a star like some I know, but I'm going to try. I'm just going to do everything I can do.

You just know he will. This young man with whom I was taking this night in Prince Edward County, Ontario, was one of the easier people with whom I have ever conversed and yet one of the more difficult to describe, because he is three or four people in one body.

Born March 14, 1957, Stephen Wilson has sparkling blue eyes with a devil may care gleam, curly blonde hair and all five feet six inches of his body is packed with talent. He is a natural in anything he tries to do. His mind is oriented to music, but the typical teen-age life does not pass him by.

"I'm not a brain. I guess I'm an average student. I'm not anything brilliant."

Steve is brilliant when he picks up his Fender Telecaster guitar and starts picking. With no formal training, he whips through "Buck's Folks" or dramatically (with the flair of a ham), sways through the blues.

"In my hometown, I admired the late Ross Greenfield. When I first started playing guitar, I learned about seven songs of my own. He pretty well taught me the basics. He didn't teach them to me, but he showed me the pieces. We'd go through them, I'd tape them, take them home. I didn't really watch his fingers that much. I just went to hear the tune, take it home and learn it. He was very good. He never got promoted (as an entertainer) or anything. He was the Postmaster of Picton, Ontario." Sadness clouds the usual sparkle in the blue eyes. "Ross died last summer. . . he was only in his late forties, too."

Ross Greenfield must have realized a great sense of satisfaction as he watched Steve work up a brother/sister act with the other only Wilson child, Brenda, who has just completed grade 13 and at that time planned to enter a university to study production and copyrighting. With a voice comparable to Lynn Anderson, the pretty 18 year old sister belts out songs always accompanied by her fifteen year old brother. They sing alone; they sing together; Steve is an instrumentalist. Together they have been on Canadian Radio and on the Tommy Hunter Show, a CBC Production. Both have copyrighted songs.

Steve feels more confident with Brenda on the stage. "Yeah, because I know what she is going to do. . . she never lets me down. I am totally at ease. I can't complain about what she does." Perhaps his confidence was shattered by an incident when he was twelve years old. "I was standing to go on with my guitar. This man (part of a back-up group) was sick, handed me his guitar and told me to go on in his place. Before I knew it, I was out there. . . I didn't know any of the songs. I almost died. I guess I did all right. I couldn't play very well then."

If Brenda doesn't continue a musical career, what then? "If I couldn't get into a good band,

"... I want to enjoy life . . ."

I would still be in the Union. . . be a handle. You know handle? If someone needs lead guitarist, they'd let me down the list and if I was available, they would call me. . .

While his sister is away in school, Steve is contemplating teaming up with a young married couple from Wellington, Linda and Dan Boyce. We all met at Wilson home at R.R. #1 Hillier one evening. Microphones dominated the living room; guitars were scattered; a piano stood in corner. I soon discovered another facet of Stephen Wilson. He does an imitation of Jerry Lee Lewis one would believe. I watched his fingers fly up and down keyboard as they had on guitar moments earlier. He wants to learn to play better honky tonk piano. . . I'm really good honky tonk.

His fingers . . . "I could get out of my car and break them energy to cheer. Wrap them in bacon around cock. . . frankfurters or small smoked sausage links and halves of water melons. Fasten with small rubber bands. Prepare an ample platter of these meaty tidbits. Store them in the refrigerator. When ready to serve, place on a rack in an oven at 400°F. for 20 minutes or until bacon is crisp. Serve hot. . .

His earlier years were marred with health problems. . . Spread slices of toast with butter and place a lettuce leaf over each slice. Cooked ham slices and two tablespoons cranberry sauce and two tablespoons mayonnaise. . . prepare ahead for carving a loin roast with care, have meat retailer loosen the chine bone by sawing across the bones of the roast. When leg is finished, the back bone is removed easily by running a carving knife along the edge of the roast before the meat is placed on the platter to be carved.

"The whole bit." "Yeah, once I was playing cowboys and Indians and pulling up my bunk in the barn. I fell through two rails, down through

Although he has taken piano lessons since "six or seven" his love is HIS guitar. "Oh, I play a twelve string, a flat top, a bass, but my guitar is my guitar." He also plays a fiddle, harmonica, snare drum, and a Russian instrument, purchased by his mother while on a Bermuda holiday. Completely broken up with laughter, "Don't ask me what it's called a balalaika. It's written in Russian, even the instructions. That's why I can't play it. (His opinion, only). I've managed three chords." The fiddle . . . it came into his hands a week before his arrival. This night at the home, he squeaked and marked his way through a Benny routine of "Wildwood Flower". . . . immediately following with a jig which set our toes tapping. I had watched him in his own environment. . . . now I was watching this young man perform in front of an audience numbering our previous review. What do you feel, he, during your intro. . . . any information? "Nothing. . . . here we go. When I start singing, I get nervous, that's the best. My problem is getting on the song, putting a nice ring on it and getting into the at one real smooth. It depends on the audience. If they're hot, I'm just like a jar of cats. If they're cold, I'm like a statue. If I hear applause in the middle of an instrumental, I get a chill right up my spine. I must really like me. . . . I'm good. I get excited and that he hits me." This night he starts "Guitar Fiddle Breakdown". . . . I remember the serious face and as which turn dusky when he is the topic. His fingers flying; the audience is hot. The audience is applauding. There is a chill up MY spine. Stephen Wilson has never been to the States, except once to visit friends. He doesn't want to be a musician here; at least, he tells me now. Perhaps a fifteen year old boy in the States would have no desire to even think of being a musician permanently in Canada.

"I don't really want to go to Nashville. I might get in a bum hotel. . . . once you get into one, you never get out, unless you meet someone and get a big chance. In some hotels, the people don't listen to you. They don't give a darn. . . . there are SO MANY STARS in the States, you gotta be good. . . . real good." With a shrug, "You get bum jobs in Canada, too, but with so many big stars in the States, you're more apt to get a name here. I don't know. . . . I like it here. . . . well, why not, I was born here, for heavens sakes. . . ."

Who does he admire as an instrumentalist? The eyes dance and there is the typical soft chuckle. . . . "Well, Chet Atkins, eh? I mean, I don't find anything wrong with any of his music."

Stephen Wilson is fifteen years old and one of the best guitarists I've ever heard. Canada will hear a lot from this young man. . . . I have the feeling it might just trickle down into the States.

"I can't say I am going to be a star. . . . but I'm going to try." There is little doubt in my mind.

My thanks to my Canadian colleague, Terry Sprague of the Picton Gazette for introducing me to this tremendous young man.

History in Chess!
Chess sets often commemorate battles. After Waterloo, many were made depicting Wellington leading English soldiers against Napoleon and the French. A set made after the battle of Saratoga had George Washington with Liberty as his queen, flanked by Generals Gates and Morgan. Ranked opposite them were George III and Britannia, with Generals Howe and Burgoyne.

Thanksgiving

Canadians celebrate their Thanksgiving Day at a time more closely related to the Harvest period. The second Sunday of October has been in recent years the date for the national Canadian holiday.

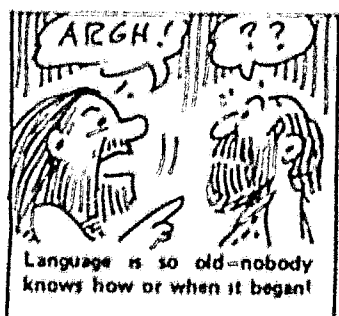

Harvest feasts are ancient and universal. Early celebrations were often tied in with religious beliefs and traditions. The idea was not original with the Pilgrims although they placed a unique mark on the particular U.S.A. holiday.

The first presidential Thanksgiving proclamation was issued in 1789 by George Washington in honor of the new constitution. Throughout the 19th century the states made the holiday an annual festival but each state chose its own date.

The third Thursday of November was appointed a national holiday by President Abraham Lincoln in 1863. In December, 1941, Congress set the national public holiday as the fourth Thursday of November.

The religious aspect of the holiday is often celebrated with a community worship service on Thanksgiving morning or on the evening preceding the holiday. Thankfulness and gratitude for the blessings of life will be intermingled with family reunions and Thanksgiving feasts on November 23.

Nature's Providence
Some Northwest Indians revered huckleberries, venison, and salmon as sacred food signifying nature's providence.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY
Bartholomew was guest of honor for his 40th birthday party at home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bartholomew of Bethel. Also was guest of honor at a birthday party Wednesday, Nov. 15, at home of her mother, Mrs. George Bartholomew. The party was given by her mother and she received and enjoyed it very much from both parties.

MRS. RING WAS 91 NOV. 6
Talking about birthdays, I L. Ring, who is at Ledge, West Paris, should be mentioned. She was 91, Nov. 6, and is known as Grandma to many. She is a smart and she says has an appetite she gets around her room with her walker.

But 23, her daughter from 1 co. N. Y., came for a week, just before that her daughter came and covered her big 6 with a very pretty material.

Then the company started came with musical instruments and gifts. Nov. 3 her Dr. Albert Ring, from Montpelier came laden with gifts and 1 of like Santa Claus had got 6 Nov. 3 there were 23 callers in her room. Nov. 4 it was a the same. Today, Nov. 6, there callers and more gifts. Nov. 6, people in the kitchen made a 3 1/2 dinner and delivered it in a Gram car in her room on 11th table.

In the forenoon, Nov. 6, in a daughter-in-law with a bear birthday cake she had made decorated so pretty. This is remembered all with a good reason. Talk about a one day she had 14, one day 12, I want to mention the 16 birthday of someone named 1 Franklin Grange. Today is a day to add more a little I don't know just how many 6 yet.

Have just counted up the 6 and there are 60. So we are thinking this is a real bird and wish her good health until 6 1973, and long after. We by Alma Whitman Ledge West Paris, Maine.

TAX FACTS AND FANCIES

Did you ever wonder who invented taxes? It wasn't England's King George III, nor King Solomon, nor the Pharaohs of Egypt, nor the Roman emperors, nor the rulers of ancient Greece or China—although all of these were notable tax collectors.

One theory is that the idea may have actually started millions of years ago when industrious beavers developed their share-the-work plan.

Faced with the need to cut down trees, dig canals, and build dams to hold back creek water, beavers found that all could benefit if each contributed his share of the chewing, digging and building.

The same primitive form of taxation with the community claiming a portion of each man's labor was used in early human civilizations. Even after money was invented, the basic idea was to collect enough revenue to accomplish certain goals for the good of all.

In recent centuries, however, men have twisted the principle into some pretty strange shapes, so it would hardly be fair to blame the beavers for that.

The Romans collected a tax on the toga, a popular garment of the day. The more elegant the toga, the higher the tax.

Ancient Greece taxed doorways which opened outward on public footways.

A tax on windows forced many persons to live in dark and cheerless homes in England and Holland, and a French fireplace tax resulted in a lot of frost-bitten Frenchmen.

Beards, wigs, funerals and even bachelors have been taxed at one time or another.

In Germany, which has lined up with America in support of the dollar, financial men have come up with a value-added system of taxation that promotes tree competition and may help America sell more goods in Europe.

But a smart old Frenchman named Jean Baptiste Colbert may deserve the credit for best defining taxation. Said Colbert, who managed his nation's finances for 22 years during the reign of Louis XIV, taxation is "the art of plucking the goose in such a way as to produce the largest amount of feathers with the least possible squawking."

Snows of Yesteryear

In an article on the apple, particularly in Maine, this statement was made under the heading of Varieties:

"There are an endless variety of apples, the good, bad and indifferent, numbering over 2,000,000 in the State of Maine. Among these native varieties, numerous as they are, there are but few which deserve cultivation; and it is doubtful whether among these few, the best have been found."

There followed the list of varieties in the sixth paragraph of this opus and added, "are all natives of Maine; and are described as large, fine fruit. We have many other varieties which are equally deserving of name and distinction, but are now unknown to fame. It is hoped that our agricultural societies will seek them out and make known their merits. The following varieties are recommended by northern horticulturists as worthy of cultivation." Of these, more later.

It seems incredible that two million varieties of apple should ever have existed at one time in the state of Maine, and one cannot help wondering if the pen of the original writer of the report slipped into too many zeros, or whether in the course of typesetting, proof reading and printing, error

The encyclopedias, as mentioned, don't even come close to that figure in the world, let alone Maine, and if nothing else, we wonder who in blazes counted and catalogued them (if cataloging is what you do with an apple!)

We sought advice from Prof. Lyle Littlefield, landscape specialist of the U of M Extension service, whom a friend recommended as a knowledgeable gentleman in the field. He wrote:

"I certainly believe the 2 million figure is an error. Perhaps they refer to that many trees, not varieties."

He mentions some names of varieties such as Black Apple, otherwise known as Small Black, Jersey Black, Black American; Stevens Gilliflower, originated in Sweden, Me.; Cornish Aromatic, from England; and Roxbury Russet, from Massachusetts; and later speaks of Bailey's Golden, origin, Kennebec Co., Maine.

But mistake or not, Maine had and has apples—by the ship load. Warren S. Abbott of Rumford recalls that as a 13 year old boy he watched as pickers worked on his father's farm, packing Ben Davis apples into barrels hooped with split saplings for shipment to Europe.

And Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sweetser of East Rumford recall that they once had on their farm, the old Abbott farm, a tree of the Maiden's Blush apple which among hundreds of others, no doubt, the writer had never heard of.

To get back to those recommended in the one hundred and 20 odd year old article from which we've been quoting, they included many name of which we had never heard, or have long since forgotten. How about you?

Here they are: Sumner Apples—Early Harvest, Red Astrachan; Cole's Quince native of Cornish, William Favorite, Red Parris Apple called sometimes the Sops vine or Sops of Wine, "a fine summer apple, introduced in this region by Gov. Parris whose name it bears"; an Early Sweet Bough.

Fall Apples: Winthrop Greening; Superb sweet Porter; Fairbanks; Briggs Auburn; Winthrop Pearmain; Hubbardston Nonesuch; Mother Apple; Granville (a German apple—preferred by some to the Porter); Gold Ball; Blue Pearmain.

Winter and Spring Apples: Rhode Island Greening; Baldwin or which the late Baldwin is a modification; Tallman Sweeting; Lady Sweeting; Seaver Sweet; Roxbury Russet, Northern Spy, origin New York.

The Black Apple, Spitzenberg, Nonesuch, New Pippin and New York Pippin were described as all good winter and spring apples. Bailey's Golden Sweet, a Stevens' Gilliflower, native apples, were highly recommended as winter fruit.

More names or apples which were listed in the exhibits of the York Society in 1859 were also interesting for memories they revived because they are apparently long gone from the modern apple eaters.

John Rogers of Kitt exhibited seventeen varieties of apples, Orange Sweet, Rhode Island Greening, etc. (Continued on Page 6)

THIS WORLD OF OURS

The "recycling way" is gathering momentum in the United States through active individuals. Today, recycled materials represent a minute portion of what is discarded goods as raw materials. The "recycling way" has a difficult road ahead before it becomes a way of life. You, however, can think recycling at home and work. Try to think of secondary uses for bottles, cans and paper. When you purchase goods, think of their durability and recyclability.

INNOCENT LOOKING TOYS CAN BE DANGEROUS

Even the most innocent looking toys are potentially dangerous in the hands of the wrong child. That's the basic message from Food and Drug Administration toy safety experts who are trying to reduce the number of toy injuries in the United States, a figure put at 700,000 annually by the government.

Some stuffed animals can be easily taken apart by a child, exposing dangerous wiring underneath. Check for unprotected wiring around the ears, arms and legs before purchasing such a toy.

Happily, thanks to the FDA, consumer groups and concerned manufacturers, toys are, in fact, safer than ever but there are ways to keep the accident rate down.

The most important factor is parental supervision. Whether children are playing in doors or out, alone or with others they must be watched.

Choice of toys is a key to safety too. Select toys suitable for a child's age, interest and abilities. Keep in mind young or brothers or sisters who may have access to toys bought for older children. And, check labels on fabrics. Choose items with non-flammable, flame-resistant or retardant fabrics and stuffings marked washable and hygienic.

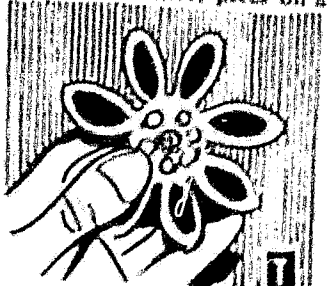

CRAFTY IDEAS

JEWELRY FROM THE KITCHEN

Play clay is a kitchen-made clay that hardens to a ceramic-like quality. Make a batch of play clay and then roll out or mold into jewelry shapes. Trim with fragrant herbs or spices for long lasting pungence. Paint with water colors, poster paints or felt-tip pens and finish with a protective coating of clear plastic spray or nail polish.

To make a batch of clay, mix 2 cups baking soda and 1 cup Argo corn starch in a saucepan. Stir in 1 1/4 cups cold water and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches a slightly moist, mashed potato consistency. Transfer immediately to a plate and cover with a damp cloth. When mixture is cool enough to handle, knead as you would dough until smooth. Working on a protected surface, shape clay free hand or roll out to about a 1/4 inch thickness and cut shapes with cookie cutters. Shapes will harden and dry at room temperature in about 16 hours. Any left over play clay can be stored for later use in a tightly closed container. Now you're ready to try a Crazy Daisy Pin. Roll clay to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut a flower shape with a cookie cutter. Press petals down with thumb. In center, press on a small circle of tin foil that has been pierced. Around it, press silver cake decorators secured with a drop of white glue. When dry, paint petals and glue a pin clasp to back.

Make a button earring from a ball of play clay the size of a large marble. Press flat with thumb. Moisten and press into center a smaller ball of clay. Decorate center with all-purpose glaze and pressed into an arrangement. When dry, paint and glue on an earring back.

Free electric start.

S. A. D. #44 BOARD MEETS

AT LOCKE MILLS SCHOOL

The S. A. D. #44 board of directors met at the Locke Mills Elementary School on Monday evening, Nov. 20. Dave Denison, director of Co-Op Education at Telstar, gave an excellent report on the program implemented this year. Thirty-eight students are participating, and there are 70 who have expressed a desire to participate. There are many employers who would like to take more students.

Basil E. Kinney, superintendent, reported that he had contacted a trucking company with regard to vehicles turning in the Ethel Busbee School yard. The firm has promised that any of their vehicles will leave the practice. The turning of large trucks in the yard has posed a potentially hazardous condition for the students at the school.

Mr. Kinney discussed guidelines for the implementation of a self-evaluation of the district's elementary system with the community, staff members and the State education agency using involved. He stated that such a plan would be available in developing a five ten year plan regarding the future of S. A. D. #44 elementary schools. Mr. Kinney said that at a later date he would request formal board action regarding self-evaluation of the elementary schools to begin in January 1974 to be completed no later than June 1975.

The board approved Harwood Jordan as a postgraduate student at Telstar.

A motion picture was shown by the board was a driver education program, outside of school hours, during the current school year. It was learned on Tuesday that it is a fact that the State Board of Education has determined that it will not pay subsidy for any driver education program during the regular school year where a student is enrolled in a school. It would appear that the program approved is unworkable to implement.

The board approved a field trip for all grade six students of the district to attend the Portland Fall Fair, a day of fun and games, on Nov. 16. This trip is under the supervision of Mrs. Edna Lippert, elementary supervisor, and will be led by the sixth grade teachers.

The board approved a request for a new rate of $149.75 for the 1973-74 school year and an elementary rate of $200.00. The rate of tuition for the regular school year is approved by the State Board of Education and is subject to the State Board's approval.

THE WESTERN MAINER

Retired gentleman fills hours with unusual work combination

by Buddy Chick

Before many weeks Leroy Frank will be wearing a bright red suit and listening attentively to the excited voices of children who are sharing their hopes and dreams for Christmas gifts on December 23. This helper for the "real Santa at the North Pole" needs no artificial beard to complete his outfit when he appears at Peck's Department Store in Lewiston throughout the month of December.

Christmas season can't last year round and throughout the year this energetic 65 year old gentleman may be seen with a twinkle in his crisp blue eyes and the newspaper bag with a bright fluorescent orange strap slung over his shoulder, as he marches along at a determined pace on his paper route.

The paper route gives Mr. Frank a chance to visit 42 of his Hacketts Mills neighbors every day and at the same time bring the Lewiston Journal's evening news to them.

For 32 years, Leroy worked for the Rogers Fiber Co. Mill. When the Mill closed its doors, he was 62. At this age it is difficult to start over so he decided to retire.

Leroy's seven children are now grown and he and his wife live in a neat rural house in Hacketts Mills. He likes to keep busy so besides his paper route, he is also custodian of the Latter Day Saint's Church in Mechanic Falls. He also keeps milk goats and geese.
